

Does a control theoretic model recreate changes from stimulation?

What features aid stimulation targeted to improve memory?

